Bay Council ok's 38.5% services rate increase

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Bay St. Louis Council was unanimous Tuesday night in acceptance of recommendations by Barbay Engineers on an ordinance establishing new higher rates for city provided gas, water and sewer services.

Gas rates are increased 23.3 percent; water, 33.7 percent; and sewer, 168.5 percent with the increases effective immediately.

Roger Comeaux, Barbay engineer, in making his sewer presentation two weeks ago, told the Council, "If the city does not make a rate adjustment by the end of the fiscal year, the city will suffer a $190,000 loss."

Ms. Athalia Piernas, Gulf Coast

Community Action Agency, (CAP) director for Hancock County, said Tuesday, "The Council will come under some pressure for taking Barbay's recommendations. I want to congratulate you all."

"I am glad that you did the study, we knew the rates would probably be increased. We hope it will encourage conservation. It would have been harder to have had to increase the rates 75 percent at the end of the year, if nothing would have been done now," Ms. Piernas stated.

Ms. Piernas said she was going to release to the Sea Coast Echo a letter hoping it would help the Council in getting the utility customers to understand the situation which forced the increases.

Ms. Piernas said that Doyle Moffitt, executive director for Harrison and Hancock County CAP who at the presentation by Barbay said, "I cannot see the City continue working at a loss, I champion the administration for the task you have. We want to thank you

Price checks butane tank which he said exploded as he was trying to remove it from shed during the fire causing him some minor injuries. The Haas' were in bed at 9:50 p.m. when Ben Jordan, a neighbor, woke them and their two children also asleep in the upstairs of the residence. Mrs. Haas said Wednesday the fire company arrived in seconds. Lizana said he had 16 firemen and volunteers and one fire truck on the scene. (Staff photo-Ellis Cuevas)

School officials choose HNC site for handicapped center

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Revised plans for a handicapped center were presented to the Hancock County School Board at its regular meeting Monday night by Architect John Mykolyk of Pass Christian. The board voted to accept a Hancock North Central site for the center.

Several months ago Mykolyk presented plans for a two-classroom, special education center at Stennis International Airport, but School District Coordinator Harlin Hill later found the center and its location not to be in compliance with state laws. The revised plan shows a six-classroom building with an administration room and sleep area to be located at one end of the Hancock North Central Elementary building.

Bob Perry, Mykolyk's associate, said Wednesday afternoon, "The new building will be connected to the elementary building by a covered walkway and probably have a brick veneer exterior to match the existing buildings."

"This building is bigger and we estimate its cost at about $215,000," Perry reported. The original two-room special education center's estimated cost was $90,000.

In other business at the 6 p.m. Monday meeting in the County Youth Court Building in Bay St. Louis, the board:

—Approved an $11,180 payment to MIRI, Inc. for reroofing work on the HNC elementary and high school buildings as recommended by Mykolyk. Some $2,000 of the payment was held pending repair of roof leaks in the buildings;

—Approved rehiring Vocational-Agricultural Teacher D.J. Martin for the 1980-81 school year;

—Approved payment of expenses for Hill to attend a grant writing seminar in New Orleans May 12-14. The board agreed to pay a $60 tuition fee, meals and room for three days;

—Approved the hiring of Teacher Jan White for Silver Creek Center for the 1980-81 school year;

—Approved closing a dump in Section 16, Range 5, Township 15 as requested by a petition signed by some 63 people. Superintendent of Education Billy D. Sills said the board had taken a similar action twice before;

—Accepted the resignation of Deborah Cuevas, a study hall monitor at HNC;

—Paid $800 to Terrell Randolph for March services as 16th Section land manager;

—Approved the minutes from the last meeting;

—Tabled a proposal by Turan-Lane Chevrolet in Bay St. Louis for driver education vehicles. The new proposal

Prayer rally planned on Courthouse steps

By RICH ADAMS

Religious leaders of a number of area churches have scheduled a rally April 29 on the steps of the Hancock County Courthouse to pray for local and state government leaders.

The rally will be conducted in conjunction with a religious event the same day in Washington, D.C. at the nation's capital called "Washington for Jesus."

Local ministers met at the Hancock Bank on US-90 Tuesday to discuss publicity and plans for the local event, which will include a pre-rally breakfast at Sirloin Stockade in Waveland 7 a.m.

Tuesday, April 29.

The ecumenical rally will take place at the courthouse at 5:15 p.m. that afternoon.

"Locally, Christians are asked to unite in a giant rally on the steps of the courthouse Tuesday afternoon where local school bands, the Keelson Air Force Base Drum and Bugle Corps, and area singers will lead the crowd in patriotic songs," Church of Christ Minister Doug Lowrance said.

"Prayers will be offered for all government leaders with special

Lott names Jim Collins to Annapolis

JAMES L. COLLINS, JR.

By ELLIS CUEVAS

James L. Collins Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Collins Sr. of Bay St. Louis has received a competitive appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md.

Collins received his appointment from U. S. Congressman Trent Lott.

A senior at St. Stanislaus, Collins has attended that school for six years. A New Orleans native he also attended Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic School (Bay Catholic Elementary) for six years.

At a recent Math and Science tournament, Collins scored in the top 10 percent in the state in math.

He is president of the National Honor Society, member of the year book staff, tennis team and Spanish Honor Society at Stanislaus.

Collins is also a member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church and CYO and enjoys water skiing and basketball.

Collins said, "I am very happy to have received the appointment from Congressman Trent Lott and I am looking forward to my years at the Naval Academy."

Road problems surface at supervisor's meeting

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Several county road problems surfaced at a Monday morning regular meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Some 10 residents living on a gravel road leading to LaFrance's Fishing Camp in Ansley appeared at the supervisor's regular meeting complaining of the poor condition of their gravel road.

Mrs. Author Malley complained about the county not maintaining the road in front of her home north of the Dedaux Community, and an attorney for James Baldrée requested that Adams Street, a Pearlinton road, be reestablished and paved.

The Lakeshore residents said their road, which leads to LaFrance's fishing camp through Herron Bay Estates, had deteriorated to such an extent that county school buses would not travel the road.

Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge said, "The way this road is right now I don't think we can do anything about it. Until it stops raining I can't grade it."

A resident complained, "But this road is like this all the time."

Courge replied, "We grade your road regularly."

Another resident stated, "We need shell or gravel put on this road."

Courge reported, "We have 127 miles of road in Beat One to maintain and 60 miles of those roads need to be blacktopped."

A resident asked Courge, "Wouldn't it be cheaper to blacktop our road?"

The Beat One Supervisor replied, "No man, not until we build the road up to where salt water doesn't get to it. We have ditched and graded the road."

Courge explained that the road through Herron Bay Estates goes underwater with high tides pushed by a strong east wind which would destroy any pavement put in the area.

Board Attorney Walter Phillips said, "I would recommend Don Murray do a study and see what is feasible to do with this road."

Courge told the residents, "I spent $3,600 on your road building it up with clay gravel, but I don't have the money to blacktop it."

"There's not a thing I can do until the rain stops," Courge reiterated.

An area resident said, "We'll be back if something isn't done when the rain stops, but you couldn't bring your truck or car down that road right now."

Another resident requested a bulldozer pull stuck vehicles out of the road.

Courge agreed to provide a bulldozer to pull out the stuck vehicles.

In addition, the District One supervisor also reviewed the annual budget for his district, noting, "I want to make people aware of the money we have to work with."

Another road maintenance problem arose at the Monday meeting after Mrs. Author Malley charged that Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner would not allow a county grader to maintain the road in front of her home.

Mrs. Malley also brought a letter from County Superintendent of Education Billy D. Sills asking the board to maintain the road, informing the board she has a handicapped child.

Ladner said, "Didn't you stop a bus from coming in there to turn around?"

Mrs. Malley replied, "That road is not for people to come around on."

"What about a road you cut in Thursday on one of my neighbor's property?" Mrs. Malley asked.

Phillips said, "If a road is dedicated by the county then it is public road."

Mrs. Malley reported, "My husband's got heart failure and 11 other things wrong with him, I can't let people come through there and disturb him at all hours of the night."

Ladner replied, "If you let the public use the road then I'll grade it, but if you restrict this road, then I can't maintain it."

Phillips reported, "If it's a public road, Ladner can maintain it, but if it's not he can't."

Mrs. Malley said, "I'll show every road you've (Ladner) cut in and I'll show pictures in the paper and on television."

Board President Alton A. (Dolph) Kellar stated, "As long as a school bus and mail carriers have been using your road, it is a public road."

Mrs. Malley replied, "I can't turn the road over to the county because I'm buying my home through the Farmer's Home Administration. That road was there for four years before I lived there and I've lived there for six years."

Kellar said, "If the public has been using the road for 10 years, then it is automatically a public road."

Mrs. Malley said, "We've known about the 10-year law and we've stopped people from using the road for the last three years."

Another Beat One road matter was brought to the supervisor's meeting by Frank McCreary, a Gulfport attorney representing James Baldrée of Pearlinton.

McCreary filed a petition to have Adams Street in Pearlinton opened and extended in Blocks 46 and 47.

"On Oct. 29, 1851 a plat was filed for this street to be opened. Maintenance has since declined to the point where the road no longer exists and the only access now is a dirt road which is south of the actual street," McCreary explained.

"The purpose of the petition is for the trustees of the property (the board of supervisors) to pave between Blocks 46 and 47 so the owners will have full use of their property," McCreary added.

Kellar asked, "Is there some other way to solve this problem?"

jections to paving this road?"

Courge reported, "The existing road has been there for more than 10 years... there's a land dispute there."

The attorney said, "There's about 13 feet between the road and the dedicated street."

The board voted to accept the request to maintain Adams Street.

DON CARLO

Verdi's "Don Carlo," featuring Renata Scott, Tatiana Troyanos and Sherrill Milnes, will be televised "Live from the Met" at 7 p.m., Saturday, April 12, on the Mississippi ETV Network. "Don Carlo," an opera in five acts is a tragic tale of frustrated love written in the tradition of grand opera. Based on Schiller's play "Don Carlos," the libretto was originally written in French for the Paris Opera. Verdi, however, was disappointed with the French version. The new opera was soon translated into Italian and restructured, sacrificing many subtleties of the French language but gaining in dramatic unity and thrust. The Metropolitan Opera's version of "Don Carlo" retains the Italian translation.

FILM CLASSICS

Ronald Colman stars in the swashbuckling adventure film "If I Were King," to be presented on "Film Classics" at 8 p.m., Friday, April 11, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Co-starring in the 1938 release are Frances Dee and Basil Rathbone. Colman plays Francois Villon, a flashy poet and idol of the Paris mob.

EPA seeks public input on 210 rules

In an effort to keep the public informed on the progress of current regulations, the Environmental Protection Agency issued on March 14 an agenda of 210 regulations currently under development and is inviting public participation in their formulation. EPA prepares and issues regulations in the areas of air and water, pollution control, drinking water protection, noise abatement, radiation protection, solid waste management and pesticides and toxic substances control. The agenda includes new regulations, existing regulations which the agency is reviewing or revising, and non-regulatory actions which the Agency believes are important.

Along with each regulation is a brief description of the regulation, the name of the EPA contact person and an estimated schedule for issuance. Interested persons are encouraged to get in touch with these contact people to provide or obtain information concerning the development of these regulations.

EPA will issue its next agenda in June, 1980 and thereafter in December and June on a semi-annual basis. ## County Title 1 evaluated

Hancock County Schools' Title I ESEA Programmed Tutorial Reading Project was recently evaluated by on-site visitors Jerome Brock, director of the Mississippi Facilitator, and Mrs. Sue Ward, consultant for a similar project in Davis County, Utah Schools.

These educators said they were pleased with the results of current data showing an average per pupil gain of at least two months growth in reading for each month of instruction received in the Tutorial Program. Title I aides were praised for 'enthusiastic and effective tutorial approaches.' Funded by Title I, ESEA, Hancock County's Programmed Tutorial Reading is supplementary reading instruction for children in grades one through four having the most difficulty with reading.

The program: --underachieves with reading instruction in a one-to-one relationship.

--utilizes tutorial procedures that assist aides in becoming more proficient in identifying and correcting reading problems. Aides are trained and supervised by the Title I coordinator and the classroom teachers.

--allows pupils to work at their own pace geared to their needs and abilities.

--improves self esteem of the children by emphasizing success rather than failure. --builds experiences so that each pupil feels accepted and develops desirable attitudes about reading.

--gives immediate feedback; is highly motivating; and leads to discovery learning.

SPRING PASTURE MANAGEMENT

Overseeded bahiagrass and bermudagrass pastures must be properly managed to utilize the ryegrass forage produced and not penalize the early summer production of the permanent grass.

Overseeded ryegrass is growing well with the recent warm weather. As these pastures produce more forage than cattle grazing them can consume, add more cattle.

It is very important that these overseeded areas not be allowed to grow up. If they are kept grazed close, the bahiagrass and bermudagrass can start to grow along with the ryegrass.

By concentrating cattle on the over-seeded area some of the grazing planted on a prepared seedbed can be saved for hay. With the very high cost of producing wintergrazing, the forage produced must be utilized as grazing or saved as stored feed.

Ryegrass harvested for hay no later than the dough stage of the oldest seedheads makes an excellent hay. Quality of ryegrass for hay drops quickly as it matures.

While cattle are grazing out these overseeded areas, summer grass on other pastures can get started and be well established by early May when ryegrass usually fades out. Cattle can then be rotated to allow the over-seeded bahiagrass and bermudagrass pastures to come back.

All surplus bahiagrass or bermudagrass should be harvested for hay as the first growth in the spring is the highest quality forage produced during the season. If pastures that were over-seeded must be harvested for hay, cut this ryegrass as early as possible to reduce the competition to the permanent grass.

The tonnage of early cut ryegrass may be down but the quality will more than make up the difference. A good thumb rule is to overseed no more than 1/2 of your permanent sod pasture and alternate these each year.

As the cost of fertilizer continues to increase, we cannot continue the luxury of a scattergun approach to pasture fertilization. The soil testing of permanent pastures, then fertilizing according to the specific needs of the soil, for the forage crop being grown, is the surest way a profit can be expected from each dollar spent on fertilizer.

Along with proper fertilization and timely rotation, weeds must be controlled by spraying and/or clipping. We cannot afford to fertilize pastures if weeds are not controlled.

VANDALISM CAN BE STOPPED

When this column dealt with the problems of unmarked county roads and rural vandalism some months ago, there was generated considerable interest in the form of phone calls and personal contacts throughout Mississippi. It obviously was a subject of deep concern for many -- and as a result, several counties are looking into their own county road marking needs and a new interest in combating vandalism has been demonstrated.

This writer was put in touch with two dedicated city employees in Gulfport and McComb whose efforts in recent years are solid evidence that vandalism can be stopped if the problem is met head on with one of the best educational tools known today -- law enforcement.

Take Gulfport, Mississippi, for example. City traffic engineer Cliff D'Angelo reports that the cost of vandalism to city traffic signs had eaten up some $45,000 to $55,000 in tax money before the city of Gulfport decided to fight back. They chose law enforcement to educate the public -- and it worked.

Amid a well executed publicity campaign in the coast area involving all news media, the city had unremovable decals installed on the backside of all traffic signs in the city in brilliant yellow and black colors with this message:

"WARNING! $100 to $500 fine and/or imprisonment for removing, defacing, or possession of this sign. City of Gulfport."

During a prescribed period the city announced that signs already taken could be returned without prosecution. Following that period anyone caught in the act or even in possession of a city sign would be subject to a $100 fine for the first offense, $300 fine for the second within a year, or a $500 fine with a 30-day jail sentence for a third offense.

"Stolen or damaged signs were costing our city from $2,000 to $3,000 each weekend," reported D'Angelo. In laying the groundwork we talked with judges, the police department, the news media and others, the city official said, to put together an enforcement schedule.

Hancock District schools schedule pre-registration

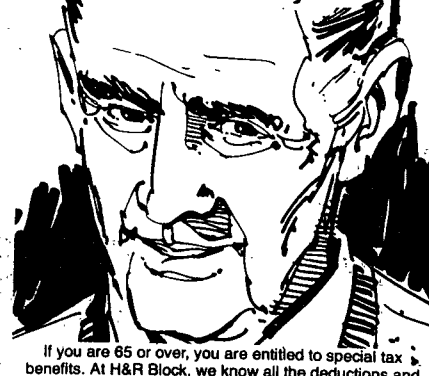

Charles B. Murphy, Gulfview and Hancock North Central Elementary Schools will hold registration April 11 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in first grade classrooms for students entering first grade in the fall.

Registration is necessary now so the schools will know how many students to prepare for in the fall.

Children must be six years-of-age on September 1, 1980. A true copy of his or her birth certificate is necessary, and must be an original or a copy signed by a notary public.

An immunization record is also needed to get a certificate of compliance from the health department.

Everyone is talking about the amount of rain we have had already this year and we are only a few days into April.

We can all be thankful for the two consecutive days of sunshine we had on Easter Saturday and Sunday.

Many of the residents of the area are all complaining, especially the early birds who set their 'necessary gardens' out early because all of their seeds have rotted.

We haven't been able to get ours started as yet because of the excess water and it looks like everyone will have a late garden this season. With more rain on Monday and Tuesday of this week we'll have an even later start.

Talking about the beautiful weather over the weekend, we are happy with the reports from all of the local churches on their attendance Sunday.

Every church seemed to have record attendances for Easter Sunday.

We hope the attendance will continue to rise in all of our churches on Sundays.

There is a need for four coaches in the Bay St. Louis Baseball Minor League program.

The age group is for boys ages 9-12.

If you have a little time on your hands, your services could be of big benefit to the community this summer.

Give Billy Rhodes a call at 467-2624 or 467-5990 for further information.

We hope there will be enough coaches for the minor league program to continue.

Everyone seems to be complaining about the number of pot holes which have developed because of the rainy season.

In conversation with the officials of the county as well as Bay St. Louis and Waveland, every effort is being made to correct the situation.

There is a need for some rain-free days in order for repairs to be made and possibly hold.

THE CRISIS IS NOW

If the flow of oil from the Middle East were to be suddenly cut off, Mississippi - one of the most fuel intensive states - would out of necessity take a number of economic steps backward. Various forms of business transactions would slow or stagnate.

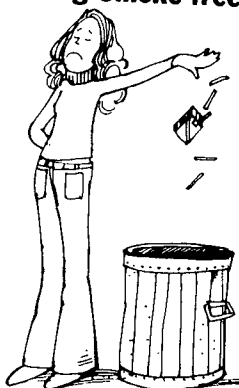

The availability of energy is essential to the economy and security of this nation and Mississippi and is necessary for the maintenance of the high standard of living we enjoy.

Right now the United States could not deal with a major Middle East oil shutdown, according to experts. Presently proven U.S. oil and gas reserves will not last much longer than this century at the rate we are using them now.

But there are other alternatives - coal, nuclear, solar, synthetic fuels, oil shale, and tar sands - not to mention the fuel of the future, nuclear fusion. But to take advantage of these alternatives, we must allow private enterprise to seek methods to develop and use these potential sources of fuel.

The Mississippi Economic Council, the voice of business in the state, recognizes the potential crisis if we are not prepared to make full use of alternative fuel sources. The Council recommends - along with adoption of a national energy policy - favorable economic incentives for development and conservation of energy resources, examination and reappraisal of state and national environmental programs, and goals to establish a better balance between the need for protection of the environment and the need for development of energy resources.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:

Rail Deregulation

One of the most complex and far-reaching issues to come before the Senate this year has been railroad deregulation.

The effect of deregulating our nation's railroads can be both good and bad, depending on how such things as abandonments, service, rates and other factors develop.

Many of our areas have already experienced disturbing changes in their airline service since that important industry was deregulated a few years ago.

Most Americans believe that today we have too much federal government regulation in our daily lives, in our workplaces, and marketplaces. Sentiment in the country is toward less regulation, less interference in our affairs by the government.

During floor debate on the railroad deregulation bill, I succeeded in winning Senate approval for my amendment to prevent the use of seasonable rate increases in calculating the base for any permanent rate adjustments. In other words, my amendment helps protect our shippers of agricultural or industrial commodities from having to pay higher base rates as a result of temporary or seasonal increases.

The chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee and others on that panel agreed to accept my rate amendment as part of the overall bill.

We did not succeed, unfortunately, in winning approval of our amendment to insure more time for consideration of contested abandonments, or proceedings where railroads are seeking to abandon certain stretches of line.

The loss of vital rail service can be a critical blow to the economic, climate and development of those areas affected by such railroad abandonments. It is our contention that they should have plenty of time to marshal all the facts necessary to protest such abandonments, or to work out a solution which maintains transportation facilities.

Several areas in Mississippi are presently involved in an effort to contest rail abandonments, or secure new management and operation of stretches of line the big railroads want to abandon.

It was on behalf of these communities, and others who may suffer their fate down the road, that we carried our fight against easier rail abandonment to the Senate floor in the face of strong opposition from the bill's sponsors.

Those of us concerned about the future economic growth and development of our state are anxious to see sufficient rail service maintained to insure achievement of this worthy goal. State officials are currently working on a statewide rail plan that will be aimed at securing this objective.

In the evolutionary process, from tightly-regulated U.S. railroads to a great deal more freedom of operation, I believe, it should be the responsibility of all to see that economic interests of local areas be protected as much as possible.

I know that is my paramount concern in Congressional action on the railroad deregulation legislation, and I plan to follow closely the course of this bill during its future legislative consideration to make sure it will help meet our future transportation needs in Mississippi.

Inquiry into public business

may result in harassment

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

About a year ago I received several calls from people in our community concerning rumors about the Hancock County School Board sending the Hancock North Central boys basketball club to Europe.

The people in the community know I attend the Hancock County School Board Meetings.

They wanted to know how the school board could send anybody anywhere because of a shortage of money in the system.

I suggested to these people that they ask the board about this.

The people paid, however, they felt they could not risk being harassed by asking pertinent questions.

The board had never discussed the European trip at a public meeting, so I asked board members individually about the matter.

They said they knew nothing about this plan.

I continued to make inquiries about the possibility the basketball team might be sent to Europe, and in so doing, came to the startling realization that asking questions about public business in Hancock County is considered 'harassment' by some public officials and others in the community.

The people who called me didn't want their names used at first, this was beyond my comprehension, but, now I know who is actually harassed; the concerned parents.

Unfortunately, this is why their identities must be protected even though we are supposed to be living in a free country.

By asking 'harassing questions,' I found that the basketball club could be sent abroad by the Mississippi State Department as goodwill ambassadors. But in the process I learned why people in this community don't get involved in their own community affairs—'harassment by a sick political element.'

The people in all public offices who have the power to supply equal education to all students are controlled primarily by their political concerns—education is on the bottom of their list.

AFGHANISTAN: WHAT'S REALLY AT STAKE

Washington Report

By REP. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

With the emotional rollercoaster of Iran capturing much of our attention lately, the situation in Afghanistan has tended to slip off the front pages. But the Russian invasion of that previously independent country carries a grim threat to freedom-loving people everywhere.

The question many Americans are asking themselves is this: "Does the United States have any national interest at stake in Afghanistan?" After all, there aren't many Afghan-Americans in the U.S., Afghanistan has few significant natural resources that we know of, and our trade with the country has been all but non-existent. In spite of that, I believe Americans have a very real interest in Afghanistan because of the connection between moral values and our own national interest. We have seen the Russian army invade an independent country, denying human rights to an entire people through the use of direct military force. There have been reports of genocide, purges and a variety of other inexcusable events.

It is virtually impossible to separate moral values from national interests. Interests are determined by values and, to a large degree, moral values.

Our primary interest is national security. To guarantee this security, our nation must have unimpeded access to raw materials, energy resources, sea lanes and, when necessary, military bases on foreign soil.

To secure this a cess, it is necessary to have friendly and accommodating governments in as many countries around the globe as possible. That accommodation, in turn, sometimes depends on the sharing of common goals.

When Afghanistan ceases to be an independent state and becomes yet another satellite of the Soviet empire, not only has another nation lost its human rights, but the free world has lost another buffer against communist aggression.

The Soviets might be encouraged to believe that violent aggression is a riskless and costless venture which they can continue to pursue successfully. They may view the U.S. as a paper tiger.

When nations bordering the Soviet Union come to believe they have no reliable support from free nations, they may make their peace with the Soviets rather than risk invasion. The result, at the very least, gives the Russians authority and power over the country.

If we are to help nations avoid these consequences, I believe we must give serious consideration to long-term policies that really punish the Soviets for their aggression.

If we don't find effective means of stopping Russian aggression, we simply invite more trouble for ourselves, our values and our allies around the world.

Property owners balk at easement requests

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The 1979 Small Cities Project for upgrading sewer and water systems in the 500 blocks of St. John, Main, State and deMontluzin Streets has been delayed because of a lack of easements.

Anthony Loiacano, one of the property owners from whom the city is seeking easements, asked the Council, "Why did you wait so long to try and get the easements. The man (engineer) has already done all the work."

Walter James Phillips, filling in for Board Attorney Joseph Gex, commented he thought one of the problems was the fact that the city is seeking a 35-foot easement for a 3-foot sewer line as he had discussed the easement situation with Mr. Gex.

Loiacano mentioned the fact that during the Council's Thursday night "work session" that eminent domain proceedings were discussed.

Ronnie Murray, administrator for the Small Cities Project, said yes it had been discussed at the "work session" because they felt it was necessary to discuss all angles.

Phillips stated, "I have been involved in a total of over 175 eminent domain cases, and I feel the 35-foot amount in question which I discussed with Gex would not 'hunt' in court."

"I understand the three parties involved had no objection for reasonable easements to the city at no cost for the amount of property only necessary for the sewer line," Phillips added.

Joe Brown III of Brown Engineers, when asked by Council President Pete Benvenuti if the 35-foot easement was necessary allowed, "It is necessary due to the construction techniques on the project and in the future for maintenance."

A discussion was held about there being a possibility of three locations being selected in the beginning on the project.

"I even asked for the easement in putting the cart before the horse. The 35-foot that you are asking will mess up a whole parcel of land for me," Loiacano stated.

Robert Kane of McDonald Realty

Company said he was interested in getting water to some other property owned by his firm.

Coast Electric is the third owner of property the city is seeking easement on.

An offer of $600 was made to Loiacano for a 35-foot easement over property he owns from Main Street through St. John. He stated he should have received a second offer of $800 but claims he never received it yet.

Currently, Murray reported that he was waiting for Mrs. Linda Hass to submit new appraisals which are to be reviewed by Ames Kergosien and then they will make another proposal to the property owners.

In other business, Council took under advisement bids received for a utility pickup truck and also a Koenig Serv-all body.

Bidding on the truck were Shuffert Pontiac, Dub Herring Ford, Picayune; Bill Garrett Chevrolet, Slidell; Charles Henderson Ford, Waveland, and Turan-Lane Chevrolet, Bay St. Louis.

C and I Trailer Sales, Gulfport, and Truck Equipment Sales, Theodore, Ala., submitted bids on the Serv-all body.

Dr. Michael Smith gave a status report on the water tower painting, reporting that the rainy weather has slowed the contractor down a bit. With good weather, Smith said, the two water tanks should be completed in a few days.

Mayor Bennett was asked by the Council to look into a flooding problem faced by the Leroy Bourgeois family whose property an open drainage ditch crosses.

Bourgeois said, "Everytime it rains, we have to leave our house because of the water. The ditch is covered on both sides of my property and is open only across my property which causes the bottleneck."

Bennett reported that it was a serious problem and he would check and see the cost of correcting the drainage ditch.

Brown presented a master plan to the Council for the Main Street project for their study.

A concern was expressed by the Council on the amount of liquidated damages on the 1978 Small Cities Project as the contractor is now 134 days over the limit, according to Brown.

The contractor requested a work extension on the project and the Council is to meet with them and discuss the matter.

In previous meetings, Brown mentioned how the Beta Construction had done several things like spreading clay gravel and shells for the city which wasn't covered by the contract.

Council adjourned the meeting after accepting the docket with the exception of one item on lab analysis in order for Mayor Bennett to check the contract the City has with Waste Water Plant Management Company.

They test the city's sewerage lagoon on a monthly basis and also issue quarterly reports for the Mississippi Air Water and Pollution Commission.

US-90 businesses five years overdue on essential services

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A delegation of US-90 merchants put the Bay St. Louis Council on a hot seat Tuesday night by inquiring 'just when would water be made available' to them.

Buddy Whitfield, owner of Whitfield's Furniture, said, "I have been looking for water for over a year." Whitfield just recently completed building at his new location.

Ronnie Artigues, owner of a business complex in the area between Main and Washington Streets on the north side of US-90, commented, "When are we going to get some action on fire and water protection. A lot of studies have been done. Why can't you take money out of the general fund as US-90 has nothing."

The merchants were up in arms about the city's priority on moving the sidewalk on Beach Boulevard instead of supplying them with water and fire protection.

Red Reinike, owner of Redglo Ceramics, said, "I have been waiting for 10 years for water and fire protection. All I am asking for is a little water to run my business. I had moved outside the city and you came and got me."

Reinike was referring to the fact that as part of the agreement on annexation of the area where his business is located, the people were promised water and fire protection within five years, and now 10 years have passed.

Council President Pete Benvenuti said, "We came up with the beach sidewalk relocation about a year ago, and no one said anything about it. About three months ago, Mr. James Chiniche came up with a figure on the cost of water on US-90."

"Mayor Larry Bennett said that Billy

(Johnson) about six months ago came up with a price of $14,780 for materials cost for the water from Mr. Whitfield's place to Washington," Benvenuti continued.

Benvenuti said the engineer's estimates on the beach was less than half of the US-90 water system.

Artigues commented, "For the city to get something done you have to go through three tables," and Whitfield added, "We have been getting the run around."

Wilmer Seymour, councilman-at-large, stated, "I know it is three years we have been in office. I have been waiting for sewerage for 10 years myself. We are going to have to do something, I think we are late."

"As a city councilman, it makes me sick to see you without water, you businessmen, and all the business people are the backbone of our city," Seymour added.

Seymour continued, "I know you are tired of waiting, I think we should be able to find the money. You are here because you are serious, and we are losing too much from not having water and fire protection on US-90."

Council locked horns 2-2 on acceptance of a proposed $580 cost from Brown Engineers for submitting a preapplication for funds from the Farmer's Home Administration for preparing a cost estimate and sewer and water extensions to those residents without the services now.

Benvenuti and James Thrifflay were in favor of Seymour and Harry Farve voting against. Councilman Fred Wagner was absent.

After the meeting Seymour and Farve indicated it was the general rule to study a proposal before accepting it as their reason for not supporting it.

'America's Greatest Bargain-The Library'

By PRIMA WUSNACK

Hancock Librarian
"America's Greatest Bargain The Library!"

That's the slogan for Mississippi's 1980 observance of National Library Week and, if you think about it, you'll realize just how true it is.

In today's world, there aren't many bargains left. But the library, at a relatively small cost to the taxpayer, provides a wider range of services than ever before.

Libraries are more than just book-filled buildings. They have the resources to provide the public with answers - answers to questions of every description, ranging from the highly technical to the very vague.

Libraries either have or can get highly specialized information for special interest groups or very general information like a telephone number of a business in Chicago.

But it doesn't stop there! Libraries can provide you with the answers on how to dress for an interview, how to make small talk at a big party, how to keep your car in good running order, how to fill out your income tax returns, and much more.

The possibilities are unlimited - you only have to ask.

So, if you're looking for answers at a price that can't be beat, why not try your local library! After all, America's Greatest Bargain is the Library!

#2 of the Coastal Program Series

$13,800,000 IN JUST 6 MONTHS!

Mississippi's commercial fish landings totaled 186.3 million pounds and had a dockside value of $13.8 million during the first half of fiscal year 1979. The 1979 figures carry out the steadily increasing trend in the value of commercial fish landings. In 1950, it was $5,441,000; it reached $7,606,000 by 1960, and in 1970, it was $11,101,000. These figures would be even more impressive if the additional value of retail sales and the menhaden and pet food industries were considered. While commercial fishing is important, recreational fishing and its related tourism boost our economy as well. How many other coastal industries contribute so much to our economy, culture, and enjoyment?

The future of commercial and recreational fishing on the coast demands that we maintain an environment which continues to provide the habitat for the seafood we catch. Even though the wetland environment is an essential source of food and shelter for marine and wildlife, development has significantly reduced these habitat areas by dredging and filling. Through wetlands conservation, seafood regulation, oyster bed shell planting and transplanting, and artificial fishing reef creation, we hope to increase the harvest of the fisheries for the benefit of all.

Our fisheries face tremendous pressures today, not only because of the number of recreational and commercial fishermen, but also because man's development has destroyed or polluted many fisheries habitats. As our oil is limited, so are our crabs, shrimp, oysters, menhaden, mullet and other marine species. By increasing our knowledge of Mississippi's fishery resources, we can maintain a high yield of seafood without depleting or destroying the stock. Through fisheries management, the Bureau of Marine Resources can balance the optimal seafood yield with the natural limits of our fisheries.

How do you feel about fisheries management? Come to the Mississippi Coastal Program public hearings and let your ideas about the program be heard.

$700,000 reappraisal plan reviewed by county officials

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

In an unofficial meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Houston H. Evans, a Jackson real estate appraiser-counselor, proposed a $700,000 county reappraisal program.

"It will cost about $700,000 to reappraise Hancock County, a private contractor would charge you over $1 million," Evans said.

"Right now it's not a matter if reappraisal is necessary, it's a matter of when the courts will require counties to reappraise," Evans reported.

"People in this county know what their property is worth, but we will get railroaded out of the county unless you (the supervisors) sell this program to your people," Evans said.

"This program starts with aerial mapping and the State Soil Conservation Service will map Hancock County April 30. The problem in mapping is the rectification of different areas, but the contouring we get from these maps is excellent," the appraiser reported.

"The next step in this program is field inspections. Tax Assessor-Collector Edward Murtagh will not have time to accomplish the task of reevaluation," Evans said.

"I'm particularly interested in this county because it's the first county to undertake this program in-house," Evans added.

"I hope to get a crew of credible local people to do field inspections. With this inventory data we can get a state approved evaluation," the appraiser said.

"The trouble you get into is in the land value itself. The only control we have on this is the local market. Real estate appraisal is made based on the local market," Evans stated.

The Jackson appraiser said he could begin working Hancock County now with a projected completion date of Jan. 1, 1983 and explained, "You're getting a longer period to split the budget costs over several budget periods."

"I think it will be hard to find enough local people to do this work, but Eddie (Murtagh) thinks we will get retirees to do this job," Evans said.

"In my proposal I've set forth a method of mapping and I'll charge $50 an hour for the time I'm here," Evans reported.

Beat Five Supervisor James Travirca asked, "I thought we had to bid this type of work?"

Evans replied, "I'm not interested in bidding. This just hasn't been done before. If you hire this work on contract you have to advertise for bids which could run over $1 million."

"I would be an employee of the board and the tax assessor would do this with on-board personnel," Evans explained.

"I think we can have some good liaison with the state. The last I heard was we would get a land use law. This would change the whole area of the appraisal situation," Evans reported.

"I don't think the legislature is going to do anything in regard to reappraisal, but the Chancery courts will do this,"

Evans added.

Board President Alton A. (Dolph) Kellar said, "I don't think we can do this without the state's help."

The appraiser replied, "We're addressing a problem of equity."

Travirca said, "There is no way we can do this without putting on additional millage."

Murtagh stated, "Hinds County had to hire him to do the job and we can't do this just with additional staff. This proposal includes mapping for $53,000."

Evans reported, "To assign 50,000 pieces of real estate is a big job."

The Jackson appraiser said at least one lawsuit has been filed in every county he's appraised and the board of supervisors would be held legally responsible for a reappraisal of property.

"Five days a month is all I can guarantee I will work each month along with an on-board staff that can work with me," Evans explained.

Murtagh reported, "We will have a lot of callbacks because there's a lot of absentee landowners here."

"Using tax assessor's personnel will also help maintain the program in the future," Murtagh added.

Kellar said, "There's one thing bothering me, I can't see how we can go into this before Oct. 1, 1980."

Evans replied, "The money you spend on this will be recovered by the lands you will put on the tax rolls. The other day I was in a municipality and we found a lot of property which was not even on the tax rolls."

Kellar stated, "It's not true in this county."

Evans reported, "I guarantee you will find new houses in rural areas and rental houses behind existing homes that are not on the tax rolls. In this respect I strongly urge that building permits be required in the county."

Murtagh said, "I consider the board vitally interested in the county, I assumed you had no knowledge in this area so I brought you the finest man in this field. I wanted you to see the whole picture."

Evans stated, "If we can do it and make it work here, then the rest of the counties can pick this program up."

Kellar asked, "Can we move this program from July to October?"

Evans replied, "Sure, but I will have to see about getting local retirees. I have to make sure of everything and I think we may not be able to find enough local people."

Travirca said, "We have to wait until the courts give the millage to do this."

Evans stated, "It can't be done for free and I would suggest you get your aerial photographs now."

Kellar reported, "The state bill has been amended so much it doesn't even look like the original bill."

Travirca asked, "Could we get a local and private bill?"

Kellar said, "This has been turned down in the past and the expense has been put on the board of supervisors."

Evans added, "It has been a power struggle on who will do what, but it will be forced upon the boards of supervisors."

Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner said, "Your proposal said you will charge $50 an hour or $37 an hour for another person."

The appraiser replied, "I don't want to burden the board with a long explanation of services, but I think we are going to run ourselves into a position where they can't get along without my services. I can't see us not working with this. The only thing controlling the problem is the money."

"We only have 10,000 parcels that have to be measured and this proposal should be accepted by the state. All you have to do is make a letter of request for a consultant from the state. State requirements are negotiable," Evans said.

"I know this arrangement is asking for a lot of trust and money," Evans added.

Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro said, "I think it's a hell of a thing to burden the county with this."

Evans said, "We've got three years to do this and spread the payments over several budget periods."

Perniciaro asked, "Will our local assessor be able to handle new housing or new industries after this reassessment and how will this effect the taxpayers?"

Evans replied, "Since the local tax assessor's personnel will be working on this reassessment they will be familiar with the procedures."

"So far as taxes go, we've found about a third goes up, a third goes down and a third remains the same. Your tax base will go up so millage falls. Typically utilities will fall, old age folks will pay taxes where they were not paying before and the cost of automobile tags will be reduced. It all boils down to your local market," Evans explained.

"Somewhere along the line this has got to be coordinated. I'm trying to set a method where we work with in-house folks. Once inventory has been gathered from the field then we will massage this information," Evans explained.

Kellar stated, "The only way I can see of doing this is the way you suggest right now."

Evans replied, "I will work with Ames Kergosien (a local real estate appraiser) because he knows these neighborhoods. I want to know about this local area as much as possible."

Kellar said, "I'd like to go with this."

Evans reported, "Unless you have someone here with interest in this area you're not going to accomplish anything."

Kellar stated, "What will be hard is to explain this to our constituents with one-third of the taxes expected to go up, but there are many of us who are not paying our fair share of taxes."

emphasis on leaders and those in authority in Hancock County and the state," he added.

"You can be a part of 'Washington For Jesus' and 'Hancock County For Jesus' by committing yourself to intercessory prayer for the nation and its leaders," Lowrance continued.

"Make every effort to attend the rally and breakfast. For more information about the Washington event, call 1-800-528-0369," he added.

In addition to thirty-second radio advertisements and notices of the local meeting in area newspapers, the ministers have agreed to obtaining a television spot on "Good Morning South Mississippi."

The church leaders said they will discuss the upcoming local rally during their sermons Sunday, and will have forms for personal commitments available at the churches.

The forms may be returned to any area church, the ministers said.

MY PERSONAL COMMITMENT

I, _____, will be a part of those who gather to pray at the Hancock County Courthouse, April 29, 1980 at 5:15 p.m. I will join in making this covenant before God:

To start praying for the Washington rally and the Hancock County rally, beginning now.

To attend the Hancock County for Jesus Prayer Rally

To do everything I can to encourage others to join us in both the national and local effort.

PLANNING RALLY—Plans were finalized Tuesday afternoon at the US-90 Hancock Bank Branch for a religious prayer rally to be conducted April 29 at 5:15 p.m. on the steps of the Hancock County Courthouse. Religious leaders discussing plans include, sitting from left, Rev. Charles Clark, Waveland First Assembly of God; Father Bernard Kellar, St. Rose De Lima Catholic Church, Bay St. Louis; Father Austin Walsh, Annunciation Catholic Church, Kiln; and Bay Senior High School Choir Director Peggy Tedford. Standing from left, Russell Chapman, Hancock Bank manager, NSTL Branch; James

Ginn, Hancock Bank vice-president, US-90 Branch; Rev. Robert Hargett, Little Zion Baptist Church, Waveland; Rev. Charles Johnson, Christ Episcopal Church, Bay St. Louis; and Rev. Larry Bradley, associate pastor of Waveland First Assembly of God. The rally will be preceded by a breakfast April 29 at Sirolo Stockade in Waveland. Called 'Hancock County For Jesus,' the rally is in conjunction with a national rally in Washington, D.C. Prayers will be recited for local and state government officials. (Staff photo-Rich Adams) was exceeded during the successful campaign with Mike Benvenuti as chairman.

Kosbab commented, "I am very happy to have been selected as the chairman for the 1980 United Way Campaign of Hancock County. It will take the efforts of the so many volunteers this year, as in previous years, their help will enable us to reach the goal of $40,000."

"The United Way serves so many very important agencies and it gives an individual, family, business or corporation an opportunity for a one-time giving," the campaign chairman added.

The Salvation Army and the Mississippi Council on Epilepsy have also been added as agencies receiving support from the Hancock United Way for 1980.

The two join the Hancock County Blood Bank, Hancock County Red Cross, Boy Scouts (Cypress District), Girl Scouts (Gulf Pines Council), Hancock County Day Care for the Elderly, Catholic Social Services, Gulf Coast Mental Association, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Hancock County Emergency Relief, U.S.O. (Worldwide), Fireman's Doll and Toy Fund and Goodwill Industries of South Mississippi, Inc. as agencies supported by the United Way of Hancock County.

Norton Haas Sr., president of the United Way of Hancock, presided over the meeting.

Also in attendance were Kosbab; Mrs. C.R. Beyer, executive secretary; Conrad Mauffray, executive director; Mrs. Theresa James, Mrs. Ina Piazza, Wayne Ducomb, Ellis Cuevas, Willis Britt and Mrs. Genevieve Daniels, all directors.

Carter, Moran trials continued until July

By RICH ADAMS

Trials scheduled in Hancock County Circuit Court for former Hancock County Youth Court official Charles Carter Jr. and Edgar E. (Pete) Moran were delayed this week until the July court term by agreement of both defense and prosecuting attorneys.

Carter is charged with embezzlement in connection with an alleged transfer of some $3,000 from Youth Court restitution funds to his own bank account.

Moran is charged with murder in connection with the shooting death of Coast Electric Employee Curtis Holman Jr.

Former District Attorney Boyce Holleman is representing both defendants.

The April court term opened Monday morning with jury selection for a trial of Ronald Melancon, charged with one count of grand larceny, but only two dozen of the 100 jurors summoned to jury duty appeared in the courtroom.

Most of the prospective jurors had earlier requested to be excused from jury duty.

Circuit Court Judge Leslie B. Grant ordered Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson to summon more prospective jurors Monday night and Tuesday morning, and jury selection continued Tuesday.

Melancon's trial was declared a mistrial Tuesday after the jury could not reach a verdict, the judge reported Wednesday.

In court Wednesday, Wayne Champagne pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny by truck.

He received a five-year prison sentence, which was suspended to five years probation in addition to a $1,000 fine and $650 in restitution.

Champagne was ordered to begin payments of $200 a month beginning in June.

A trial of Portia Goldin charged with alleged food stamp fraud was continued by agreement until the July court term, Grant reported.

Goldin is also represented by Holleman.

Beverly Jean McWethy, who allegedly held two Waveland Policemen at bay with a gun while in their patrol car, is scheduled for sentencing Friday.

Trials slated for the remainder of the April term include:

—Jimmy Gibson and Ronald A. Shaneyfelt, each charged with grand larceny (auto) and arson (auto), trial set for Friday;

—Elijah A. (Sugar Bear) Belino and Jerry Wayne Bridges, charged with six counts of armed robbery and one count of aggravated assault in connection with an armed robbery of Seymour's Jewelry Store, trial scheduled April 14;

—John D. Lott, charged with aggravated assault, trial slated April 16;

—Vincent Ortiz Jr., charged with two counts of burglary of a dwelling, trial scheduled April 16; and —Clement Delacroix, charged with statutory rape, trial slated for April 18.

Haskins refuses Ladner, Favre contract renewals

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County School Board this week received letters from Hancock North Central High School Principal Thad Haskins not recommending renewal of Boy's Basketball Coach Roland Ladner's and Football Coach Irvin Favre's contracts.

The letters were read at a regular school board meeting Monday night.

Coach Ladner, who was recently named the "winningest coach in the nation," said Wednesday, "Everything's a surprise to me. All I know is what I've read in the papers."

Coach Favre said Wednesday morning, "I was anticipating being hired back and I'll stand on my record of teaching and coaching at HNC."

"I do not feel that I can recommend (Roland Ladner's or Irvin Favre's) contract be renewed for the 1980-81 school year at Hancock North Central High School," Haskins wrote in separate letters.

Superintendent of Education Billy D. Sills said Wednesday, "I did not accept Haskins' recommendation, and I recommended that the coaches be rehired because I received no explanation of why their contracts should not be renewed."

At the Monday school board meeting, School Board Attorney Gerald Gex and Board President Woodrow Ladner determined, after reviewing state laws, that the two coaches would have to be notified by registered, certified return receipt letters of the principal's recommendation for non-renewal.

"We have to give them a notice of nonreemployment then they have to submit a request for reasons for nonreemployment," Gex said.

"All you can do is send them a notice. They have to make a request for reasons for the decision and Haskins will have to present these reasons," the attorney explained.

Sills said Wednesday morning, "We mailed a registered, certified, return-receipt letter Tuesday morning to Coach Ladner and Coach Favre, but I have not received a receipt yet."

Both coaches confirmed Wednesday morning they had not by that time received any notice or letter from the superintendent of education.

Haskins said Tuesday afternoon, "I SEEKS ADVICE—Gerald Gex, Hancock County School Board attorney, left, interprets the state laws regarding employee contract renewals with Woodrow Ladner, president, during a regular school board meeting Monday night. The board sought legal advice after receiving a letter from Thad Haskins, Hancock North Central High School principal, recommending Boy's Basketball Coach Roland Ladner's and Football Coach Irvin Favre's contracts not be renewed for the 1980-81 school year. did make the recommendations not to renew Ladner's and Favre's contracts. I didn't know discussions of the contracts were on the agenda and didn't know they would bring this matter up at the meeting."

"I don't have any comment because this is not the usual procedure and I didn't know politics were going to be brought into this matter," Haskins stated.

"If they want them back they can have them back. I don't care because I won't be back next year," Haskins said. "The only time I was talked to about this was by Sills Tuesday morning," Haskins added.

Coach Ladner said, "I've worked real hard for students at HNC for the last nine years. In the last five years our football team has been to five bowl games and we won our first bowl game this year."

"Two years ago we had an undefeated team last year and I was selected coach of the year by the Gulf Coast Chapter of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame," Coach Ladner reported.

"Roland has a very outstanding record and I think we've both done a good job," Coach Ladner stated.

Both coaches would not comment about the letters from Haskins and said they have turned the matter over to their lawyers.

Coach Favre added, "I hope this matter can be resolved. I won't leave Hancock County, this is my home. I think a lot of the kids here, and I've done a lot for HNC's football program."

Former sheriff complains about retirement money

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Former Hancock Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said Monday at a regular meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors he has not received any state retirement money.

Ladner also charged that former Chancery Clerk John Rutherford drew more retirement funds than he was entitled to receive.

"I haven't drawn three cents of my state retirement money," Ladner said. Board of Supervisors President Alton A. (Dolph) Keller reported, "We did move to pay our part of your retirement money."

Ladner replied, "If you did I didn't see it."

Keller said, "We went ahead and approved it."

Ladner charged, "You paid $14,000 to John Rutherford for 19 years service." The former sheriff showed the board a retirement fund application form he claims was altered to show Rutherford's county service began in 1960 rather than 1971.

"It's been charged here with an ink pen," Ladner stated. However, Rutherford said Tuesday morning, "I haven't gotten anything from the state retirement fund."

"The supervisors did pay their share of my retirement money from 1960 as calculated and not by me," Rutherford reported.

Rutherford said he worked as a veteran's service officer under former Supervisor R. G. (Manny) Hubbard beginning in 1960 and later during former Supervisor Russell Elliot's term.

In addition to the service officer positions, Rutherford reported he worked for the County School District, served in the U.S. military and was Chancery clerk for eight years.

"These years of service have been qualified by the state," Rutherford stated.

"I don't think Ladner knows the full truth," Rutherford added.

In other business during the 9 a.m. meeting at the County Courthouse, the board:

—Authorized funds for a trip to Chicago, Ill. by Chancery Clerk Mike Necaise, and Supervisors Bert Courree, Sam Pernicaro and Roger Dale Ladner for a federal conference on revenue sharing;

—Approved a third quarter budget for the tax collector totaling $38,607 and for the sheriff's department totaling $73,511;

—Approved the March docket as read;

—Approved conveyance of a 24-foot wide road to the county off of Wolf Creek Road. Supervisor Ladner said the road would be used by 10 people;

—Approved advertising for fencing a little league baseball field in District Three;

—Approved adding the Fenton-Dedeaux Road and the Land Fill Road as State Aid projects as requested by Engineer Lawrence Seal.

—Approved notary bonds for Dix Ashman and Mary L. Daniel;

—Approved eight changes to the tax rolls;

—Approved funds to send Sarah Lusich, a county tax assessor member to a fundamental course as requested by Tax Assessor-Collector Edward Murtagh;

—Accepted an $810 bid submitted by Howard Lizana for purchase of a District Three dragline;

—Accepted a single bid from G and H Equipment Co. of Jackson for a rotary mower for District Five totalling $5,970;

—Accepted a single bid from Holliman Equipment Co. of Jackson for a rotary ditcher for District Five totalling $22,738;

—Received a petition to the board of supervisors and the County School District requesting the closing of a dump in Section 16, Township Five, Range 15;

Hancock Vo-Tech center evaluated

A Vocational Education Evaluation Committee spent all of last week observing the Pearl River Junior College Vocational-Technical Department at Poplarville and at the centers in Hancock, Forrest and Lamar Counties.

According to Dr. James Sones, PRC's vocational-technical coordinator, the evaluation is required as part of the 1976 amendment to the Vocational Act of 1963, which requires all vocational-technical programs to be evaluated every five years.

Jimmy Smith, Copiah-Lincoln Junior College, served as chairperson of the 12 member group.

The committee evaluated all facets of PRC's vocational education including curriculum, selection of students, facilities, instructional personnel, equipment, supplies, administration, advisory council, craft committees, in-service training, evaluation, guidance, placement safety and public relations. Evaluation period began last week with an orientation period for visiting committee members, and a banquet was held later that night at the Pearl River Cafeteria.

Committee members included: Counselors and Remedial - Betty Nester, Jones Jr. College; Jim Schill, Research Curriculum Unit, Mississippi State University; Distributive Education - Eileen Baker, Jones Jr. College; Health - Camille Byers, Hinds Junior College; Business & Office - Sandra Ferguson, Hinds Junior College; Technical - Larry Branch, Golden Triangle Vocational Center; Trade & Industry - Nathan Mosley, Jones Jr. College; Bruce Ervin, Copiah Lincoln Jr. College; Shelly Prestige, Southwest Jr. College; James Taylor, Harrison County Vocational Center; Coordinator - B.B. Robbins, Jackson, MS.

STATE STAR TEACHER-Willie Bradley, driver education instructor at Bay Senior High School, has been selected State Star Teacher in that field and will receive such an award at an upcoming banquet. The award is given by the Mississippi Driver Education and Safety Education Association. Eight semi-finalists are chosen for the annual award from each of the state districts. Bradley won the District Eight award and was then chosen by the state. He has instructed driver education for 20 years. (Staff photo-Rich Adams)

Happily, the recent heavier than heavy rainstorms didn't succeed in devastating the strawberry crop in Pontchatoula, La.-so the Strawberry Festival will be going on this weekend in the town that's often called the "Strawberry capital of the world."

But you don't have to go to Pontchatoula-you can stay right here on the Coast and enjoy strawberries from our markets in so many ways.

One of our favorite is good old-fashioned strawberry shortcake-the real biscuit dough king, which we prefer to sponge or other cake bases for those jewel bright berries.

It's the kind I remember from my earliest days, when the family cook would make small shortcakes for me and my sister and brothers to nibble on while she was preparing the piece de resistance for the dinner table finale.

She always made a biscuit dough of two cups of flour, three teaspoons of baking powder, along with four tablespoons of shortening, a dash of salt and enough water to make a stiff dough.

Sometimes the mixture is too doughy, and you have to add a little more water, mix all ingredients together, and roll it, Old South "hoecake" style, about the size of a cake plate and about a half inch thick.

Bake in a hot oven-about 400 degrees-til done, and then with a large, sharp knife (which you've briefly warmed) split the "cake" and drizzle butter over each layer liberally, just as you do hot biscuits fresh from the oven.

Distribute three cups of strawberries, halved or quartered at random, between tastings as I do, and sugared according to your taste, onto the cake.

Bring to the table and serve with thick cream poured atop each serving at the last minute, to keep the dough crisp.

NORDA employee awarded $1,000

Richard C. Swenson of Carriere, an Ocean engineer at the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity (NORDA) was presented with a $1,000 Superior Achievement Award by Captain Charles G. Darrell at a NORDA Award Ceremony held to observe NORDA's fourth anniversary at the National Space Technology Laboratory.

Swenson received his award for his pioneering work in developing Kevlar as cable for oceanographic applications. Kevlar is a DuPont-developed aramid fiber, now used commercially in automobile tires, that is comparable to steel in strength but much lighter in weight and does not stretch like nylon.

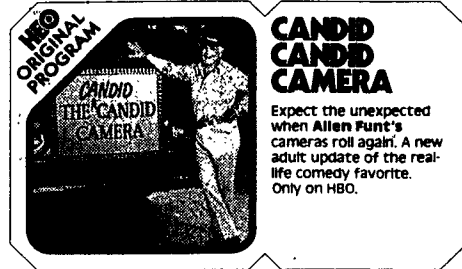

Swenson several years recognized that Kevlar had the potential of solving a major problem in making measurements in the deep ocean, which usually involves attaching instruments to cable arrays that are lowered thousands of feet deep or towed for long distance.

The traditional use of heavy, expensive steel wire rope for these cables makes the operation difficult, costly, hazardous and time consuming, and, in addition, the steel cable corrodes in seawater.

Swenson, who heads NORDA's Ocean Technology Division, led the development work that solved serious problems in applying Kevlar for marine cable and in the process gained a national and international reputation in Kevlar cable technology.

Captain Darrell stated that Swenson's accomplishment "has had an enormous impact on almost all at-sea oceanographic operations involving cabling, whether it be mooring, towing, or lowering."

PRJC Lady Wildcats sign Shelly Dedeaux

Shelly Dedeaux, a star cager for the Hancock North Central Hawkettes for the past three years, has signed a scholarship to play for the Pearl River Junior College Lady Wildcats.

Dedeaux, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Dedeaux, "will contribute to the Pearl River cause right from the start," according to Head Coach Billy Holmes.

"Shelly will be in the lime light from the start," said Holmes, who is trying to turn the women's basketball team around at PRJC in Poplarville in his first full year as head coach.

Holmes is also the coach of the Wildcat varsity basketball team and two years ago promised to take the 'Cats from the bottom to the top.

This year his squad posted an impressive 18-8 overall mark. Being in the spotlight is nothing new for Dedeaux as she has helped lead her HNC team to the state finals all three years she lettered for Head Coach Charlie Jacobs.

The five-foot-five point guard made All South State and All State her junior and senior years and won the team's Most Assists and Most Steals awards at a recent athletic banquet.

As a sophomore she was named Best Offensive Player at the University of Southern Mississippi Basketball Camp.

That same year Dedeaux was selected All Pass Christian Tourney and HNC's Most Improved Player and won the Most Assists Award.

In 1979 Dedeaux was named the Hawkettes' Best Defensive Player and was named to the 'W' Summer Camp All Stars. She started all three years for the Hawkettes averaging nearly 10 points per contest.

OLG wins church league

Team Captain Bill Hand scored 28 points and Mike Gemelli added 24 as Our Lady of the Gulf defeated Christ Episcopal in the Men's Church League Championships recently.

Both teams held 7-1 slates for the season and a playoff game was necessary to determine a champion.

Wade Koenann and Joe D. Benvenutti combined to haul down 41 total rebounds and control the boards for the OLG squad.

Defensive Ace Norman Cowand had seven steals and six assists in the contest.

Andy Lagarde contributed two consecutive buckets in the second stanza to put OLG ahead for good.

Andy Barrett and Fred Breland scored 12 points each to pace the Christ Episcopal attack.

Senner, Lang named to South State team

Scott Senner, a 220-pound fullback from the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw squad, and Gene Lang, star halfback of Pass Christian, have been named to the South squad for the 31st Annual Mississippi High School All-

Star Football game. The event will take place August 2 at Mississippi Memorial Stadium in Jackson, according to Mitch Lavinghouse, game chairman of the sponsoring Jackson Touchdown Club.

Ricky Black of Kosciusko will coach the North Yankees and Buddy Singleton of d'Iberville will pilot the South Rebels in this year's contest. The North still holds a 15-13-2 edge in overall competition despite a 34-26 victory by the South last year.

Masters is NORDA Man-Of-The-Year

Milford Masters of Gulfport has been selected by his fellow employees at the Naval Ocean

Research and Development Activity (NORDA) as Man of the Year.

The award was presented to him by Captain Charles G. Darrell, NORDA Commanding Officer, at an Awards Ceremony March 31, which is the birthday of NORDA established four years ago at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Bay St. Louis.

management specialist, received his award for his consistent exceptional job performance. In particular, he was cited for developing the details of a new system initiated by the Federal government for rating all job applicants uniformly and more objectively than in the past.

As a result of his work, NORDA was one of the first agencies in the southeastern region to begin operating the new system.

Seven Gulf Coast residents were recognized for their outstanding or superior performance and received a Quality Salary Increase, which means immediate promotion to the next pay step in their grade. They are Ruth Jones and Esther Coblenz, both from Gulfport; Carl Mueller, Long Beach; and David Reid, Jean McCoy, Walter Jahn, and Norman Lombard, all from Pass Christian. In addition, Janet Miller, Bay St. Louis, was presented with a Letter of Commendation for her work.

The winners of the competition are not known until announced at the ceremony. Masters, an accounting clerk, processes the pay checks for employees.

Business leaders meeting at Ole Miss

Members of Future Business Leaders of America chapters from high schools throughout Mississippi are attending the organization's 26th annual statewide leadership conference at The University of Mississippi today and Friday.

Sid Lambert of South Panola High School is president of the Mississippi state Chapter, and Rufus T. Jones, director of University Development at Ole Miss, is FBLA state chairman and conference chairman.

During the two-day session, students will elect new officers, take part in workshops, receive Who's Who awards and compete in contests.

"This annual conference shows the value of this organization to the development of future leaders of our state, region and nation, who are now enrolled in Mississippi's secondary schools," said Jones.

The Ole Miss Division of Continuing Education is coordinating the meeting.

#3 of the Coastal Program Series

GOING...GOING...GONE?

Throughout history, coastal wetlands have been the breeding grounds for our seafood. They provide 90-95% of the food for our marine life; they protect the shoreline from erosion and from the brunt of hurricane surges; they filter pollution. Indirectly, the wetlands provide a source of employment and recreation for coastal residents who buy boats, tackle, bait, fuel, repair services, and other items from local merchants. In spite of these benefits, the fertile, fragile wetlands continue to be threatened by proposals to dump, dig, and pollute.

Mississippi once had 76,186 acres of tidal marsh.

By 1972, we had lost about 10,000 acres of these wetlands. At this rate, the state would have lost almost half of its tidal marsh by 1990 if laws had not been passed to protect these valuable resources. Environmental laws in Mississippi now insure that development proceeds in a way that is least destructive to the wetlands.

The Mississippi Coastal Program is a major step in implementing the state's environmental laws in the coastal area. Through the program, the Bureau of Marine Resources balances the developmental demands placed on our wetlands with their environmental limits.

How do you feel about wetlands management? Come to the Mississippi Coastal Program public hearing in your county and let your ideas be heard. You may want to clip and save the notice for later reference.

Archives and History cuts restoration funds

Officials of the Department of the Interior have informed Elbert R. Hilliard, director of the Mississippi Department of Archives and History, that April 1 was the deadline for applications for historic preservation projects to be signed.

This action, taken in compliance with President Carter's order to rescind all unobligated historic preservation grant funds as part of his budget-cutting program, would affect the fiscal year 1980 historic preservation grants approved by the Department of Archives and History Board of Trustees at its January meeting.

Projects affected would include the following: Balfour house, Vicksburg; Christ Church, Church Hill; Corner Cottage, Columbus; Hebron Hill Academy, Brandon; President's house at Historic Jefferson College, Washington; Felix LaBauve house, Hernando; Madison County Jail, Canton; Monroe County Jail, Athens; Moore house, Jackson; Mailor house, Port Gibson; Natchez On-Top-of-the-Hill restoration, Natchez; Pemberton's Headquarters, Vicksburg; West Feliciana Railroad Building, Woodville.

Hilliard stated that he was contacted by officials of the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, Department of the Interior, and by the National Conference of State Historic Preservation Officers in regard to the presidential action.

Hilliard said that President Carter's order will go to Congress within seven days. After the order is received Congress has forty-five days to amend or reject the order, under the provision of the Anti-Impoundment Act of 1975.

BROTHER ROY REINECKE, S.C.

SSC brother honored here

Honored recently in a private ceremony on the occasion of his Golden Jubilee as a Brother of the Sacred Heart was Brother Roy Reinecke, S.C.

At an Eucharistic celebration held in the St. Stanislaus Chapel in Bay St. Louis on Easter Sunday, Brother Roy renewed his vows of chastity, poverty, and obedience. Following the religious ceremony, a banquet was held in the Brothers' dining room.

Brother Roy, son of the late L.J. Reinecke and the late Paola D'Aquin, is a native of New Orleans, La. He attended St. Aloysius High School there, entering the Juniorate of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart at Metuchen, New Jersey in June, 1930.

His first vows were offered in the Metuchen chapel in 1935; his perpetual vows at Bay St. Louis in 1941.

Brother Roy's first assignment was as teacher at Natchez, Mississippi. Although Brother taught during most of his career, he was called upon to serve as prefect on several occasions, notable a ten-year term at the Catholic Boys' Home orphanage in Mobile, Alabama, during the 1960's and '80's.

On four occasions he was teacher or prefect at the Boys' Home in Mobile. He was three times stationed at Bay St. Louis and at Alexandria, Louisiana, and twice each at Baton Rouge, Louisiana, and Muskogee, Oklahoma.

In addition, Brother served as prefect briefly at Coindre Hall in Huntington on Long Island in New York in the mid-fifties.

Presently, Brother Roy is directing the janitorial staff at St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis.

Pass High Star student named

Faith T. Eaves, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Eaves and a senior at Pass Christian High School, has been selected as the school's Star Student.

Star Students are selected on the basis of academic excellence. Scholastic averages and scores on the American College Test are considered in designation of a school's STAR Student.

The Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition Program encourages and promotes academic achievement among Mississippi's high school students, explained D. B. Massengale, Jr., of Pascagoula, chairman of the Mississippi Economic Council's Education Committee.

"Top scholars are being designated as Star Students in more than 300 participating schools in Mississippi. From these Star Students, area winners will be selected, and the Council will award scholarships to the state's top Star Students."

Each STAR Student is asked to designate a Star Teacher, a teacher who has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement.

Designated as Star Teacher was Linda Lightsey.

Both the Star Student and the Star Teacher will receive certificates from the Council, in addition to being eligible for competition for scholarship awards.

Harp Girls lead Hancock Women

The Harp Girls of the Hancock Womens' Bowling League are in the lead by only two games with the Good Times right behind in hot pursuit.

Liz Bryant and Pat Wallace of the Good Times recorded a 400 series each.

Anything Goes picked up three games keeping their third place standing as Merline Mitchell, Carol Feigle, and Glenda Simpson bowled 498, 463, and 447 series respectively.

Donna Necaise of Ruth's Pin Pushers picked up a 5-7 split and rolled a 415 series, and Bert Necaise noted a 418 series.

Lucky Sevens are in fifth place and Shears Delight captured three games to remain in sixth place.

Anne Krankey of the Trouble Shooters rolled four strikes in a row.

The Goof Offs are holding eighth place with Sara Seals picking up a 5-10 split.

Loretta Reid of the Blankety-Blanks rolled a 180 game and 425 series in helping her team win two games this week.

The Lucky Ladies are in the cellar despite Darlene Storey's 429 series and Becky Storey's 422 set.

Waste water operators to attend short course

Many Mississippians are concerned during the spring flood season about water and what to do with it. A much smaller group of Mississippi people deal with water concerns on a daily basis.

They're the water and waste water facility operators, people who need special know-how to comply with federal and state laws governing water and waste water facilities.

To help the operators stay as up-to-date as possible, a May 12-16 short course at Mississippi State University will focus on daily duties that could improve the participants' services.

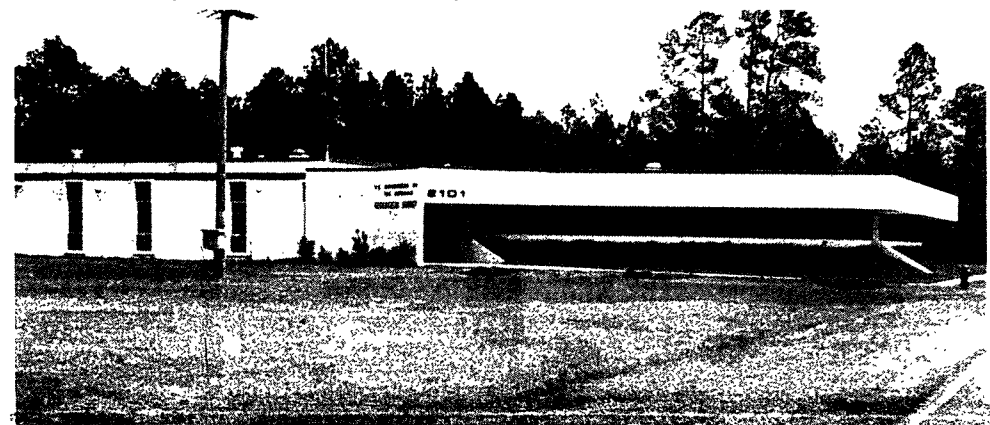

The Department of Civil Engineering at Mississippi State sponsors the short course in cooperation with the Mississippi Water and Pollution Control Operators Association, Inc., the Mississippi State Board of Health, and the Bureau of Pollution Control of the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources.

Course participants will study water microbiology, chemistry, and water and waste water treatment; chlorinator installation and safe handling of chlorine; and how to solve pressure problems. Instruction will be offered for A, B, C, and D water works operators and for Class I, II, III, and IV pollution control operators. Certifying exams for all classes will be given.

Course participants may register from 4 to 9 p.m. May 11 or from 7:30 to 9 a.m. May 12 at Hamlin Hall on the MSU campus. The registration fee of $25 will cover the cost of manuals, supplies, and other materials and services related to the course.

More information is available by contacting the Division of Water Supply, State Board of Health, 354-6616; the Bureau of Pollution Control, Department of Natural Resources, 961-5171; or Professor Howard I. Williford, Mississippi State University, 325-4434.

keeping you in touch

By F. M. Kyle Jr.
Gulf Coast District Manager

Your South Central Bell telephone directory is the everything book! In it you'll find the numbers for people, places, things, travel, fix-it, and other handy-dandy information.

The easiest, fastest way to find the telephone numbers you want is to LOOK IN THE BOOK. Once you find a number you need, make it easy to find the next time you need it. Underline it, circle it, mark it with a colored pencil, write it in the margin, or turn down the corner of the page.

Another easy way to keep a record of—and find—frequently called numbers is to write them in a personal directory or on the Quick List in your directory.

Whichever way you choose to find the numbers you call, keep the number source up to date and close by the phone.

Here are some tips to help you find names and numbers in your directory:

- Use the heading at the top of each page to locate the desired page.
- Check cross reference listings for names you aren't sure how to spell. For example, above the "Neal" listing there might be a cross reference to "Neel" or "Neil."
- Certain abbreviations are listed alphabetically as though they were spelled out. "Mt." would be listed under "Mount" and "St." would be listed under "Saint."
- Listing names can be full names, initials, or nicknames. "William Jones" could also be listed as "W. R. Jones" or "Bill Jones."
- Initials are listed before first names. For example, "Smith, J.T." would be listed before "Smith, James."
- Names that begin with numbers are listed alphabetically as though spelled out. For example, "1-Day Cleaners" would be listed under "One-Day Cleaners."

Your telephone directory has many other useful extras—emergency numbers, area codes, local and long distance dialing information, and your complete shopping guide, the South Central Bell Yellow Pages.

LOOK IN THE BOOK—the more you use it, the more valuable it gets.

WEATHER SUMMARY
(National Weather Service):
The northern two-thirds of the state was quite dry, but midweek rain brought totals between 1 and 3 inches to many southern counties. The greatest 24-hour amount reported was 2.84 inches at Biloxi on the morning of April 3rd. Average temperatures in most sections were a few degrees cooler than usual for this time of the year. Extremes ranged from 80 degrees at Columbia to 30 at Oxford, both on April 1st.

CROP SUMMARY:
Another week of scattered rains kept most farmers out of the fields. Some fields in northern and central parts of the state dried enough to allow plowing to continue. Pastures improved slightly but low lying pastures have been hurt by standing water.

Soil moisture was mostly surplus in northern and central portions of the state and excessive to surplus in the southern part of the state. Eight-tenths of a day was suitable for fieldwork during the week compared to 2 of a day last week and 1.2 days for the same week last year.

Plowing of land for spring planting was 27 percent completed compared to 46 percent last year and 53 percent for the five-year average.

Corn was 13 percent planted, well behind last year's 30 percent and the average of 27 percent.

Watermelon planting was 16 percent complete compared to 62 percent last year.

Winter wheat was 48 percent jointing compared to 51 percent for the five-year average. The crop was in good to fair condition.

Livestock and pastures rated in fair to good condition. Fuel supplies were adequate.

COUNTY COMMENTS
BOLIVAR CO. "We need sunshine and dry weather or we will be late with cotton and rice planting."

TATE CO. "Most fields continue to be wet. Some plowing on Friday and Saturday. Wheat looking good. Late application of nitrogen being applied to a few fields."

TISHOMINGO CO. "Farmers very disturbed about cost and selling price." SHAKY CO. "We finally missed a rain. Sandy ridges were dry enough to work the last of the week."

RANKIN CO. "Much needed sunshine started Friday a.m. at the end of a long rainy spell."

LOWNDES CO. "Flood water receding quickly. Rain Thursday - just about eliminated plowing on weekend."

COPIAH CO. "Land that was intended for corn will probably be planted to some other crop. Even with good dry weather we will not turn much soil until after the middle of April."

MARION CO. "Excessive rain has put farmers behind in planting."

PERRY CO. "Excessive rain has prevented growth of pastures in low areas. About 1/2 of corn that has been planted is not coming up because of excessive rain. Pastures need nitrogen."

HANCOCK CO. "Rain has kept farmers out of fields nearly two weeks. Watermelon and corn planting is behind schedule. Winter grazing looks good but too wet to graze."

ADAMS CO. "County roads blocked all over due to steep banks slipping off. Severe problem with erosion."

CALHOUN CO. "Farmers moved into fields latter part of week and began cutting cotton stalks. Also a lot of ditch bank work was being done along with some new ditching. Some discing being done Wed., Thurs., Fri., and Sat. on higher fields. If rain holds off farmers should be able to plow in most fields."

24. In Memoriam

Kenny Courge
It's been many years have passed but you're still in my heart. Whenever I see a flower, it reminds me of my brother. He made life seem so beautiful and everything in it. The only difference in a flower is a flower gets to grow. Some people say he wasn't an angel. Of course to me he was a saint. At times I sit and wonder if he misses me as much as I miss him. He left us so fast that I never got to say I love you. I love you baby brother & always will. As the years pass it seems it hurts me more and more. I'd just love to see him & say I love him so much. He's always in my dreams. He's always in my heart. Not a day passes that I never shed a tear. Oh, Kenny, I surely love you so. May you rest in Peace.
Sadly missed by
Mama, Daddy, Grandma Myrna, Family & of course, me, Patty.

Whitten to address honorees

U.S. Rep. Jamie L. Whitten will be the featured speaker at The University of Mississippi's annual Honors Day program today.

The ceremony, held each year to honor students for outstanding academic achievement, will begin at 10:30 a.m. in Fulton Chapel. Chancellor Porter L. Fortune Jr. will preside.

Highlighting the annual convocation is presentation of Taylor Medals and Taylor Citations, the University's highest academic awards, presented to undergraduate students who have demonstrated exceptional scholarship in one field of study combined with superior academic work in all subjects.

The awards are made possible through a fund established in 1904 by Dr. William T. Taylor of Booneville in memory of his son, Dr. Marcus E. Taylor. A variety of other departmental awards will be presented at the ceremony. Also, Chancellor Fortune will recognize this year's recipient of the University's Outstanding Teacher Award, who will receive a $1,000 award for excellence in teaching.

Association seeks more tree farmers

"Mississippi timberland owners who would like to become certified tree farmers are urged to act now," says Bynum Meeks of Brookhaven, chairman of Mississippi Forestry Association's Tree Farm Committee.

"Currently, Mississippi has more than 5,000 tree farms, more than any other state in the nation. These farms total approximately 3,989,411 forested acres. This indicates that a large number of small landowners are included in the program," Weeks says.

The forestry association reports owners must apply for tree farm status and allow a qualified forester to inspect their lands. Minimum area is 10 acres is required by the association and the owner must have demonstrated the desire and ability to manage his woodlands for the growth and harvesting of repeated crops of forest products.

A national program of American Forest Institute, the tree farm program in Mississippi is administered by Mississippi Forestry association, 620 North State Street, Jackson.

Tree Farm applications may be mailed to MFA or to a local county Tree Farm chairman.

Mr. Lamont Wells, St. Regis Paper Co., Picaune, Miss. is Tree Farm chairman for Hancock County.

Ole Miss study notes nurse shortage in state

Current education programs are insufficient to meet the growing demand in Mississippi for specially trained nurse practitioners, say two University of Mississippi researchers who have completed a series of studies about the new health care field.

Even though the highly skilled nurses could relieve overworked family doctors, geographic and financial factors limit the number of registered nurses who undergo the necessary additional training, says Ben Banahan.

Banahan, a research associate at the Research Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences in the Ole Miss School of Pharmacy, and Dr. Thomas Sharpe recently submitted their findings to the Mississippi Medicaid/Commission Rural Health Clinics Project, which sponsored the research. Dr. Sharpe is assistant director for Health Services Research at the University.

"Nurse practitioners handle patients with minor problems, and that accounts for 60-80 percent of the patient visits in general medical practice," Banahan said.

When a patient has more serious problems, the nurse practitioner consults with a back-up physician, or refers the patient to a physician.

"Nurse practitioners can be used in almost every sector of the health care delivery system. The majority of nurse practitioners, however, will be employed in primary care settings, mostly in public health, rural health and private care clinics. Additional positions are also available in hospitals, nursing homes, home health agencies, nursing schools and other settings."

The studies indicated that employment opportunity for Mississippi nurse practitioners is quite good, he said. "There is a substantial demand for nurse practitioners in Mississippi, and a sufficient number of registered nurses are interested in becoming nurse practitioners to meet this need."

Banahan said the State Board of Health is Mississippi's largest employer of nurse practitioners, but rural health clinics are increasing in number and providing job opportunities.

A study of physicians' attitudes toward nurse practitioners indicates that there also will be a large increase in the demand for nurse practitioners in private clinics, he said.

Other studies indicated that as many as one-third of the state's approximately 9,000 registered nurses would be interested in becoming nurse practitioners and that a sizeable percentage of this group hopes to enroll in a nurse practitioner program in the next two to five years.

"However, existing family nurse practitioner programs cannot meet current and future demand in Mississippi. Nurse practitioner programs must be developed in such a way that geographic and financial barriers to attendance are overcome," Banahan said.

Tuition, personal income support, housing costs at school, and family income support were all listed by the nurses as financial barriers to their undergoing the necessary additional training.

Non-financial barriers included location of the school and arranging for child care or care of the family.

"Currently, Mississippi University for Women offers the only family nurse practitioner program in the state," Banahan said. "Expansion of this program alone would not fully meet the demand for family nurse practitioners. More importantly, this solution would not address the problems regarding geographic barriers."

Location of the school was listed by one-third of the respondents as a non-financial barrier that would prevent them from attending any nurse practitioner program. The University of Mississippi Medical Center currently offers a Pediatric Nurse Associate (PNA) certificate.

"Developing additional programs at other universities in Mississippi would take several years, so many would be nurse practitioners have to consider going outside the state for their training."

Banahan also found that an important barrier to the most effective use of nurse practitioners involves attracting them to rural communities.

"It is these rural, medically underserved communities in Mississippi which have the greatest need for, and therefore the greatest potential for benefit from, these important primary care practitioners."

"The most successful recruitment programs have recruited local nurses who already have a long-standing commitment to the community. These nurses typically are recruited, sent to a nurse practitioner program, and then return home to practice. This recruitment technique holds promise in Mississippi."

Words now seldom used were popular in the 'olden days'

When I grew up in the late 1800s and early 1900s the only power on a farm was furnished by horses and oxen. There were no such things as gas engines, tractors, trucks, and electric motors.

As a result, there were many terms and expressions in common use back then that are rarely heard in these modern days. Travelling from place to place in 1900 was entirely different from the present day ways.

Back in 1900 when a man retired from his work and turned the job over to his son or someone else, he would probably have said, "I turned the reins over to my son." The reins were the lines of the harness that controlled the horse or the horses.

Back in 1900 we did not hear, as we do today, references to the "horse and buggy days," as those were the horse and buggy days.

Even now, we are apt to hear someone say, "I pull, or carry my share of the load." That term was used where there was a team of horses and each horse was supposed to pull, or carry his part.

To say that a man had good horse sense was taken as a compliment, as horses under certain conditions showed the ability to do the right things at the right time.

For instance, I remember that about 1900, my father went on a winter day the 14 miles from our house to Paulding, the county seat of Jasper County. A bad storm came up on his way back home after dark.

It got so bad that my father could not see well enough to direct the horse along the road. He was afraid he might get off into the ditch. He said "I gave the horse his head."

Meaning, he let the horse pull the buggy on without any directions from him. He got home safely and expeditiously.

Back in the old days, one might have said "one man horse whipped another one." That meant that a bigger and stronger whip was used to drive horses was used on the victim.

A "dark" horse was one that might have been in the area about which no one seemed to know much about. He might have been a good horse or a bad one. This term is now used about dark horse politicians.

When a person took charge of a situation, or he went his own way when something came up, it might have been said of him that "he took the bit in his teeth." An unruly horse or one that might decide to run away on occasion had learned that by taking the bridle bit in its teeth it could not be controlled by the driver but that the horse could do as it pleased.

When something came up that was not as expected, one might have heard back in the old days this statement, "that is a horse of a different color" meaning of course that some action taken was not what it seemed.

One of the ways of judging the value of a horse by the old time horse trader, was to look at the horse's teeth to judge its age and to see if the animal was capable of biting off and chewing its feed. A horse with good teeth was more valuable.

Horses, especially younger horses, were often playful while in the stock lot, or out in the open pasture. Young fellows were referred to as horsing around when playing around on occasions in a rough way.

While I never did see anyone do it, it was told that if a man had a lazy horse, one that was slow to respond to prodding, he could liven it up by putting a burr under the saddle blanket so that when the rider mounted, the burr would tickle or agitate the horse's skin and make him more active.

A horse laugh was a derisive laugh, or a laugh in such a way as to be poking fun at someone. If a man was standing with feet further apart than usual and his shoulders humped down, he was said to be standing like a sway-backed horse.

Just recently, I heard one woman say of another, "She's strong as a horse." Horses were usually healthy and had the reputation of ailing very little.

Another old term was, "Never look a gift horse in the mouth," which by so doing one would not show appreciation for the gift, as he would be looking for a flaw in the horse.

One rarely, if ever, hears the terms "horse fly" now but back in the old days a big, blood-sucking fly pestered horses.

Back in the old days horses were essential on farms and were often found in towns. All who are up in years will recognize the use of the many old time horse terms or expressions.

Horses with good dispositions often made good pets. My father owned a big yellow mare that was loved and petted by the whole family. She was extra friendly with all the family, and when I would go into the stock lot where she was, she would come up behind me and nuzzle me on the back or shoulder. Old Charley was another big fine friendly horse that all the family loved.

CANCER Answerline

A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to keep you informed about cancer.

Question: "I heard that the Shah of Iran had lymphatic cancer. Could you explain what that is?"

ANSWERline: The lymphatic system of the body is a network of glands and vessels that circulate a clear fluid, known as lymph, throughout the body. Lymph contains white blood cells that fight infection, filter out various impurities, and may temporarily trap cancer cells. Cancers involving the lymph system include Hodgkin's disease, multiple myeloma, and a number of other lymphomas. The first sign of lymphoma is usually a painless enlargement of a lymph node, in the neck, armpit or groin. Other signs include sweating, fever, itching, weight loss and weakness. Treatment is either by radiation, chemotherapy or a combination of the two. Five-year survival rates vary considerably, depending on the type of lymphoma, from less than 20% to more than 50%. Exceptional advances have been made in the treatment of Hodgkin's disease.

Question: "I hear that the breast cancer detection demonstration project of the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute is over. What are the results?"

ANSWERline: The program has not quite been completed. Twenty of the 27 ACS-NCI Breast Cancer Detection Demonstration Projects are now in their final year of funding, and the others will finish their work in 1981. A final review will be made at that time. To date, about 4 out of every 5 cancers found through the Projects were in a localized stage, when the average five-year survival rate is 85 percent. The program has involved some 300,000 women between the ages of 33 and 74. They were examined regularly for a five-year period and those with positive findings were followed. There is overwhelming evidence so far that the benefits of using low-dose mammography to discover early breast cancer outweighs by far any slight risk from radiation exposure.

Question: "I thought mostly older people got cancer, but recently I heard of two children who had it. Is it common for children to get cancer?"

ANSWERline: The risk of cancer does increase with advancing age, and many more adults than children develop it. Yet cancer is still the leading cause of death from disease among children 3-14 years of age. This year, cancer is expected to strike some 6,100 children and kill about 2,300. There has been a dramatic improvement in the treatment of leukemia, accounting for half the childhood cancer deaths. Some centers report 5-year survival rates of 50-75 percent for the most common form, acute lymphocytic leukemia.

Ag Affairs

SOYBEAN PROMOTION STATUS

Some obvious confusion exists among some farmers over the philosophy as well as mechanics of self-help soybean promotion, or marketing, so let's look at some of the basics.

Today the soybean growers of the United States voluntarily contribute a small share of their sales receipts from their crops to fund promotion or marketing activities. This activity is not the result of a national referendum such as the cotton check-off but results from soybean farmers in the various producing states getting state programs going.

Mississippi soybean growers kicked off the development of the Mississippi Soybean Association in 1963—one year after Minnesota pioneered in the development of a state association in 1962. Other states joining the movement in 1964 with Mississippi were Arkansas, Illinois and Michigan. Today 24 states comprise the American Soybean Association.

The funding and operation of the check-off system is separate from the Mississippi and the American Soybean Associations. The Mississippi Legislature created Mississippi's soybean check-off promotion. The promotion is done on a state or national basis through a Promotion Board. Membership of these state governing bodies for the check-off are through appointment by the governor of the respective states. The governor of Mississippi asks several in-state agricultural bodies to each submit nominations for qualified growers to serve on the promotion board and he makes the 12-member board appointment based on these nominations. In this way the governor avoids putting unqualified men on the state board.

In 1970 Mississippi soybean growers contributed at the rate of 1/4 cent per cent per bushel. In 1977 the check-off rate was increased to 1 cent per bushel to keep up with inflation and the realistic cost of research, promotion, and marketing efforts as state growers favorable responded to value received in their check-off program.

A farmer does not automatically become a member of the soybean association merely by participating in the voluntary check-off program. Instead he must pay an annual dues of $25 which makes him a member of both the Mississippi Soybean Association and the American Soybean Association.

The check-off program whoever certainly can be philosophically identified with the work of the association which works for the overall best interests of the soybean industry worldwide. Each member receives a weekly four-page newsletter from the national association called the SOYBEAN UPDATE which does just that for its membership—dealing with briefs on production and marketing throughout the world. Other trade publications by the group are the SOYBEAN DIGEST AND STATE SOY WORLD.

Soybean farmers through their association have expressed their concerns to Washington for more help in the form of expanded markets rather than government gimmicks.

To this end the national group has asked Congress to appropriate an additional $2 million for USDA's traditional share in funding of soybean market development efforts in the world to replace the lost Soviet market due to the President's recent embargo. USDA participants in soybean promotion funding as well as growers themselves through their state check-off programs. Also, third nation countries with an interest in the soybean potential contribute to soybean promotion.

The growers contend that an additional $2 million funding by USDA combined with the current $2.8 million in the USDA budget simply means that the government will match the $4.8 million invested by soybean growers through their check-off program, and would be a good investment especially when compared to $35 million that USDA might spend on storage payments if a soybean reserve were established that growers feel would be counter productive to the national interest.

Weekly Broilers

WEEKLY BROILERS, Week Ending March 22, 1980.

Broiler-Type
Hatcheries in the State set 6,908,000 eggs for broiler chicks during the week ending March 22, 1980, 3 percent above the previous week and 3 percent above the corresponding week a year ago.

There were 6,176,000 broiler chicks placed on Mississippi farms during the week ending March 22, 1980, 2 percent above the previous week and 5 percent above the corresponding week a year ago.

Cumulative placements for 1980 are 70,403,000 broiler chicks - 5 percent above a year earlier.

Egg-Type
Hatcheries in the State set 209,000 eggs for egg-type chicks during the week ending March 22, 1980, 56 percent above the previous week but 14 percent below the 242,000 set during the comparable week a year ago. Hatch of egg-type chicks was 322,000, 5 percent above the previous week and virtually unchanged from the 323,000 hatched during the comparable week.

In the five states that accounted for about 26 percent of the hatch of all egg-type chicks in the U.S. in 1979, settings during the week ending March 22, 1980, were down 1 percent but hatchings were up 19 percent from a year ago.

LIVESTOCK SLAUGHTER, February, 1980

Livestock slaughter during February totaled 185,400 head, weighing 52,101,000 pounds liveweight, the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service announced today.

This is 46,600 head and 10,793,000 pounds more than the same month last year. The February slaughter consisted of 11,600 cattle weighing 11,084,000 pounds liveweight; 900 calves weighing 522,000 pounds liveweight; 172,900 hogs weighing 40,495,000 pounds liveweight. The average liveweight per head of animals slaughtered was: Cattle 954, calves 592, and hogs 234 pounds.

Commercial production of red meat totaled 33,794,000 pounds during February, 13 percent below January but 28 percent above February 1979. The January 1980 red meat production totaled 72,777,000, 22 percent above 1979.

UNITED STATES

Commercial red meat production for the United States in February 1980 totaled 3.05 billion pounds, up 11 percent from February 1979, according to the Crop Reporting Board. January-February red meat production, at 6.44 billion pounds, was 7 percent above last year.

Changes by individual components: Beef, down 5 percent; veal, down 20 percent; pork, up 28 percent; lamb and mutton, up 16 percent. Commercial red meat production includes slaughter in Federally Inspected and other plants, but excludes animals slaughtered on farms.

Kill days for February included 21 weekdays (one a holiday) and 4 Saturdays, compared with 20 weekdays (one a holiday) and 4 Saturdays for February 1979. Comparing February 1980 with February 1979:

BEEF PRODUCTION at

1.71 billion pounds was up less than 1 percent. Head kill at 2.64 million was down 3 percent while average liveweight increased 37 pounds to 1,089.

Veal Production at 28 million pounds declined 20 percent. Calf slaughter at 206 thousand head was down 15 percent and average liveweight decreased 13 pounds to 231.

PORK PRODUCTION totaled 1.29 billion pounds, up 29 percent. The 7.60 million head killed was up 28 percent and was a record kill for the month, surpassing February 1952. The average liveweight of hogs was 239 pounds, up 2 pounds. Preliminary lard production was 95 million pounds, up 33 percent.

MILK PRODUCTION, February, 1980

MISSISSIPPI

Production of milk in Mississippi during February is estimated at 65 million pounds, the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service announced today.

This is 3 percent above a year earlier. There were 99,000 milk cows on farms during the month, 4 percent below a year earlier. Milk production per cow averaged 655 pounds, 45 pounds above February 1979. The extra day in February 1980 increases monthly production per cow by 3.6 percent.

UNITED STATES

February milk production totaled 9.92 billion pounds, 6 percent above February 1979. Accumulated production for January-February 1980 was 20.2 billion pounds, 4 percent above the corresponding period a year earlier and 5 percent above 2 years ago.

The extra day in February 1980 increases monthly production per cow by 3.6 percent. February milk production, using milk per cow for 28 days, is nearly 3 percent above February 1979.

Total milk cows averaged 10.8 million for February, fractionally below a year earlier and 1 percent lower than February 1978.

EXCHANGE PROGRAM

The University of Mississippi is one of 20 American universities and colleges participating in the newly developed International Student Exchange Program. As many as 10 Ole Miss students may be chosen to study abroad next year under the program, which has been established through a grant from the International Communications Agency of the U.S. State Department and is administered by Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. Application deadline is April 15 for Ole Miss students who want to be considered for the study program. For applications or more information, contact Mary Elizabeth Gwin.

SEAMAN TILLERY

Navy Seaman Recruit Dennis H. Tillery, son of Arnold and Bernice Luginbill of Pearlinton, Miss., has departed for a deployment to the Western Pacific and recently participated in exercise "Rimpac 80" in the Pacific Ocean.

He is a crewmember aboard the aircraft carrier USS Constellation, homeported in San Diego. While deployed, his ship is operating as a unit of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

"Rimpac 80" was a major Fleet exercise which involved 41 ships, 200 aircraft and 20,000 sailors and airmen from Australia, Canada, Japan, New Zealand and the U.S.

During the remainder of the cruise, he and his shipmates will participate in additional training exercises and have the opportunity to visit several Far Eastern countries.

The Constellation is 1,062 feet long, carries a crew of 2,800 and can accommodate 2,150 personnel and 85 aircraft assigned to an attack aircraft wing.

Tillery joined the Navy in June 1979.

AIRMAN MARZONI

Navy Airman Recruit Dino N. Marzoni, son of Joycelyn S. Marzoni of 303 Robert St., Waveland, Miss., has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

He joined the Navy in January 1980.

MAKES A SLING—Margaret Benny, recreation teacher for the Hancock County Senior Citizens' Program helps put a sling on Betty Mahon's arm while Ann Peneguy, Red Cross instructor and Bay St. Louis Fire Department dispatcher, observes. Mahon, from Gulfport and a Job Corps Center record's clerk, and some 19 other Gulf Coast residents recently took an eight-hour basic multi-media first aid course offered by the American Red Cross' Hancock County Chapter. Richard Peneguy, of Bay St. Louis, a National Space Technology Laboratories fire fighter and a Red Cross instructor, said people who are responsible for large numbers of people took the course. ## MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY WEATHER & CROP REPORT

Above median rainfall throughout the state during April may total more than five inches and delay the planting season, according to the Mississippi Weather Outlook distributed by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Weather patterns split the state from east to west, say agrometeorologists at the Environmental Studies Service Center in Stoneville who prepare the forecasts.

Temperatures in the Delta should average cooler than normal, with the remainder of the state receiving near normal temperatures.

The additional moisture on top of the surplus moisture already in the soil will mean a slow resumption of field work. Some fields may dry enough in early April for rice to be scratched in, but major field preparation may be delayed two to three weeks.

Soil temperatures have been cooler than normal for the past two weeks, say the weather specialists. Delta fields will be particularly slow to warm to good germination temperatures while frequent rainy periods continue.

Near normal temperatures in the hill section will bring a warming response from well-drained soils despite the rain. Poultrymen in northeast Mississippi and much of the state's central poultry growing areas can look forward to temperatures averaging near normal. However, during April periods of rapid warming within 24 hours will create a need for close attention to brooder settings.

Maximum readings will average in the upper 70s in the north and low 80s in central and south Mississippi by the end of April.

Stream flooding which affects pastures during early April may cause problems for cattlemen. Greater than usual rainfall may cause some pastures to remain too wet to graze until the latter part of the month.

In northern areas, chances for freeze or frost damage on pastures will be small after the first week of April.

Well-drained pastures in the southern half of the state should produce well.

HATCHERY PRODUCTION, 1979.

CHICKS HATCHED - MISSISSIPPI
Broiler-type chicks hatched during 1979 totaled 274.5 million, 4 percent more than the 263.1 million a year earlier.

Hatching of egg-type chicks in 1979 decreased 4 percent to 12.7 million from the 1978 hatchery output of 13.2 million chicks.

BROILER PLACEMENTS - MISSISSIPPI

There were 288.3 million broiler chicks placed in the 52 week period from December 1978 through November 1979, up 5.5 million from 1978.

CHICKS HATCHED - UNITED STATES

Broiler-type chicks hatched during 1979 totaled 4.20 billion, 8 percent more than a year earlier.

Hatching of egg-type chicks in 1979 increased 6 percent to 519 million, from the 1978 hatchery output of 492 million chicks.

BROILER PLACEMENTS - UNITED STATES

There were 3.97 billion broiler chicks placed in the 52 week period from December 1978 through November 1979, up 315 million from the preceding year. Weekly placements reached a high of 84.9 million during the week ending June 23 and the low of 60.6 million was recorded during the week ending November 3.

CHICKENS AND EGGS, February, 1980

Mississippi's 6,738,000 layers produced 127 million eggs in February 1980, according to the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This was 1 percent below the 128 million eggs produced in February 1979. Of these, 92 million were Table eggs, the remaining 35 million were Hatching eggs.

Broiler-type chicks hatched in Mississippi during February totaled 23,254,000 (9 percent) above the February 9 hatch. The hatch of egg-type chicks was 929,000 (7 percent) below the 997,000 egg-type chicks hatched in February 1979.

FIT CROPS TO SOIL

Using all crop acres of land properly is important to everyone. Fitting the right crop to the right soil will provide the best land use. Select fields now for soybean and grain crops for 1980. Test the soil now for lime and fertilizer recommendations.

USM sets 'Spring Roundup' Friday

High School and junior college students coming to Spring Roundup at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg April 11 are set for a day of orientation and information about USM and some unusual entertainment.

In addition to orientation programs and visits to academic departments, the students will be able to see a microcomputer system display and a robot, designed and built by USM students.

The robot was built this past year by senior students in Electronics Technology. It is about the height of a desk, it is on wheels and is equipped with a video camera.

The apparatus is controlled by remote voice commands and performs eight of 32 possible functions.

The microcomputer system display will feature computer games, computer art and music and computers controlling industrial processes.

Entertainment for the day will be provided by the Panther Performers from Lumberton High School and the Viewmasters, a local band which will play during a complimentary lunch period.

Spring Roundup is sponsored by the Office of High School and Junior College Relations and is an annual spring program of orientation and entertainment for prospective students.
